Underway At Last!

The new senior high school building is finally going under-cover. Sub-contracting delays and weather problems prevented completion of the roofing project last December when the roof should have gone on. But this week the roofers got to work and the general contractor estimates that they can wrap up the job sometime next week if the weather holds. With this scheduled in mind, what does E. H. Porter Construction think about its ability to have the school ready for September? "We'll make it," a spokesman said this week. (Cole)

Senior Citizens Discuss Needs With Town Council

More than 75 enthusiastic senior citizens turned out Saturday to sing together, discuss their mutual problems and be entertained at the first public event sponsored by the newly created Andover Council on Aging.

They threw back their heads to sing along with J. Everett Collins a collection of such old time tunes as "When You and I Were Young Maggie." And they talked about what they would like the community to do for them and what they would like to do for the community.

Heart Office Opens Here

Andover is the headquarters for the new Northeast chapter of the Massachusetts Heart Assn., formed from the merger of four northeastern area chapters. Since April 1 the newly organized chapter has occupied offices at 4 Haverhill St.

In announcing the merger, Dr. Albert B. Consentino, president of the new chapter stated,

"It is our expectation that this merger of four chapters into one will make possible greatly expanded services to all North Shore communities. By consolidating the trained staff of four chapters, we will be able to conduct more effective programs of research, community service and both public and professional education."

The four chapters involved are the North Shore chapter, previously headquartered in Salem, the Essex North chapter, with offices in Haverhill, the Middlesex North chapter, of Lowell, and the Greater Lynn chapter, Mrs. Olive Balkus of Lynn, chapter

Atty. Edward Gordon, council chairman, and Robert King, vice chairman, reported on the results of a survey taken in Andover to solicit the views of the some 2700 over-60 residents who live here and their needs and they discussed those suggestions which should take priority.

A total of 288 people responded to the mail query. Some of them expressed an interest in having trips arranged, transportation made available for necessary trips to shops etc., knowing of a supply of card partners and in social get-togethers.

Seventy-five said they require low-cost housing, while 145 said they did not.

Fifty-three said they need part-time help about their homes, 170

Men's Store Changes Hands

On April 1 Elander & Swanton Inc., probably the oldest retail establishment in Andover, was sold to William A. Long of Andover, an industrial sales engineer.

The Main Street business was bought from Stanley Swanton who has been the sole proprietor since 1959 when Carl E. Elander, founder of the men's wear store, retired and sold his interest.

Long, who for the past 15 years has been Northeastern sales engineer for Harvey Hubbell Inc. of Bridgeport, Conn., an electrical materials manufacturer said this week that he will be devoting full time to Elander & Swanton. He announced also that Alcide LeGendre has been appointed general store manager and that Seward E. Thresher will manage the teen-men shop.

The new owner was educated in Lawrence schools and graduated from Essex County Agricultural School as an ornamental gardening and horticulture major.

He served four and one-half years in the Army during World War II, part of it in the European theatre and he returned to work at Dyer-Clark Co., Lawrence, as a

Andover Is Lone Advocate Of "B" River

Andover was the only municipality to make an appeal at a Lowell hearing Tuesday for classification of the Merrimack River in a water standards' category that would permit virtually unrestricted future use of the now heavily polluted natural resource.

Arrayed in opposition were all her potential partners in a regional sewage treatment district - Lawrence, Methuen and North Andover. Spokesmen for these communities recommended State approval for a "C" classification which is also the proposal of the Water Resources Commission of the Division of Water Pollution Control.

That portion of the Merrimack which bisects Greater Lawrence is currently classified as a "D" stream, considered "suitable for aesthetic enjoyment, power, navigation and certain industrial cooling process uses." The City of Lawrence draws upon the river to supply its water system, but the standards now established by the State, once enforced, will prevent the use of "D" streams for drinking water supplies.

Andover was represented at the State-sponsored public hearing by Town Manager Richard Bowen and by Mrs. Watters Kellogg of the Andover Conservation Commission, Harold Rafton of the Andover Village Improvement So-

Selectmen Will Take Giles' Land

The Board of Selectmen resolved the technical difficulties delaying purchase of the C. Lincoln Giles property on North Main Street for a fire station site Monday by voting to take the land by eminent domain.

Giles was present and agreed to the procedure.

The town will pay Giles $177,000 for the property, reserving that portion of the original price negotiated ($195,000) which was to cover the cost of demolishing the warehouse shell that stands on the frontage. The Andover contractor told the board that he might bid for the demolition contract himself and that he might be able to do the job for less than the $18,000 allowed for it in the previous overall price.

Efforts to complete purchase of the land were frustrated by legal complications. The bank holding the Giles' mortgage would not permit demolition of the building so long as it held title, while the town could not legally pay for the property and then permit demolition of the building without going to public bid. Demolition was made part of the initial negotiated arrangement because the Selectmen and manager believe that Giles could arrange for razing of the building at a cheaper rate than it could be handled through public bidding.

'Vale Man Is Fire Victim

A stockpile of wood in the cellar at the home of Clement A. Lynch, 116 Andover St., helped to fuel a smoky fire that took the life of the 68-year-old Ballardvale man Friday night.

A victim of asphyxiation Mr. Lynch was already dead when fire fighters managed to reach his body. Fire Chief Henry L. Hilton said afterward that the cottage blaze was caused by faulty wiring which apparently ignited a smoldering fire between the tin-plated ceiling in the Lynch cellar and the street level of the house. Fire officials believe that the victim probably intended the metal ceiling as a protection against the spread of a fire from the cellar to the upstairs of the house. Ironically, the fatal fire originated just above the tin plating.

Funeral services for Mr. Lynch were held Monday. There was a high Mass of requiem at St. Augustine's Church with burial in Immaculate Conception Cemetery, Lawrence.

Mr. Lynch was a native of Lawrence, the son of the late Thomas and Annie (Scanlon) Lynch. A veteran of World War I, he joined the U. S. Navy in the 1930's and was still in uniform for service in World War II. He was a member of Lawrence Post 1549, VFW. Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Thomas E. McDermott; two stepsons, Edward and Robert Chamberlain; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Catherine Devlin, all of Lawrence.

Blood Supplied For 306

In the past year the Andover Red Cross supplied 1179 pints of blood for 306 residents in need of transfusions during medical care.

The blood was supplied through a program initiated by the National Red Cross in 1948. Today this program supplies free blood contributions for both civilian and military needs, 20% of the supply going to military and veterans hospitals, 10% for research and 70% to the communities where it is collected.

The Andover chapter has been involved with the blood program since its inception, covering the blood needs of this community on a complete basis. But the demand for Red Cross blood supplies is increasing all the time and local Red Cross officials are concerned that the chapter cannot continue its liberal policy of supplying blood to all residents unless additional donors are found.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit Andover on the following dates:

April 7, when an in-plant solicitation will be held at the new North Atlantic Internal Revenue Service Center on Lowell Street, the first for this new facility.

And on May 24 and 25 when the Community Bloodmobile will be at South Church.

The Red Cross finds that the man on the street frequently knows very little about his blood. He is usually unaware that there are 12-13 pints of blood in his body and just as unaware that the fluid portion of the pint he is asked to donate to the Red Cross can be "manufactured" within his system in a half an hour or so. People can safely contribute blood as often as five times each year, or every eight weeks.

Reminding residents that illness and the need for blood often go hand in hand, the Andover Red Cross is urging townspeople to "invest" a pint of blood to insure protection for their families.

"B" classification came from these Andover groups and from conservation groups representing some other communities in the river basin. Though the selectmen in Newbury went on record last week as favoring a "B" rating, they did not have a spokesman at the hearing which was held in the auditorium at Lowell State College.

Mayor Daniel C. Kiley of Lawrence, stating his city's preference for a "C" classification, told the hearing audience it would cost his city $30 million to participate in a sewage treatment project that would bring the Merrimack to the standards of a "B" stream. He added that the engineering firm of Camp, Dresser & McKee has estimated that "B" treatment facilities would cost Lowell $70 million and Haverhill $30 million.

Greater Lawrence communities have already been told that a treatment center capable of making a "C" river of the Merrimack would cost $21.8 million. The annual operating cost of $682,000 would be divided between Andover, Lawrence, North Andover and Methuen on the basis of use.

Protesting the possibility of a $26 tax increase to support a "B" treatment facility, Mayor Kiley said this would be an "impossible burden" to taxpayers in his city. "We could rebuild all of Lawrence for $30 million," he added.

Presenting Andover's position, Manager Bowen pointed out that though reclassification of the main stem of the Merrimack from "D" to "C" would represent an improvement in water quality, it would not permit any use of the river that is not presently enjoyed.

Suggesting that the need for water will be so great eventually that the river will have to be further upgraded, Bowen said, "Doesn't it make economical sense to do it now?"

The major factor that would be involved in producing a "B" rather than a "C" stream would be the addition of costly facilities for the treatment of storm drain waters which are released into the river in quantity by Lawrence, Lowell and Haverhill. There is talk of new developments in treatment for this type of sewage that could substantially reduce the cost and the cities establishing a "C" standard for the Merrimack until research in this field produces results.

Officials of the governments in both Lowell and Haverhill, spokesmen from such industries as the Lawrence division of Oxford Paper Co., James B. Coffey, executive director of the Lawrence Industrial & Development Commission and the Lowell Chamber of Commerce were all recorded as in support of a "C" classification.

Weekend Events

The music department of Phillips Academy presents The New York Camerata in a concert in the Addison Art Gallery on Sunday, April 9 at 3 p.m.

Contrary to the opinion most people draw from the words "chamber music" the repertoire of The Camerata is far from being restricted to light Baroque melodies that all seem to sound alike. Several widely varied periods and composers, from the 18th to the 20th century, are represented.

Works of Telemann, Haydn, von Weber, Villa Lobos, and Martinu will be performed by these young musicians. Glenn Jackson is the pianist, William Wittig the flutist, and Charles Forbes the cellist.

There will be no charge for admission, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

The stage is set for the 1967 edition of the Andover Ladies Handicap Bowling Tournament which will be held Saturday, April 8 at the Andover Recreation Center. Starting time is 7:30 p.m.

This tournament is open to all women keggers who have a bowling average at the Andover, Lawrence, or Broadway Recreation Centers. Star of the five-string test across five lanes will be defending champion Jet Cutress who posted 570 in 1966 - including a 32 handicap.

The Lawrence YWCA Camp Committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Claus Dengler, Lincoln Circle, is sponsoring a pool party for the benefit of Camp Y-Wood, Saturday, April 8 at 3:30 p.m. at the new "Y" pool. The event is open to the public for a small charge. Families are especially invited.

Lifeguards will be under the direction of Mrs. Leon Wilde, Chandler Cir. Refreshments will be served by the camp committee after the swim.

Proceeds from the pool party will help to install running water at the day camp site on Captain's Pond.

Portrayed

The renowned actor, Bramwell Fletcher, will bring his widely acclaimed New York success, "The Bernard Shaw Story," to George Washington Hall, at Phillips Academy on Friday evening, April 14, as the final event of the current Andover Celebrity Series. Immensely theatrical, Fletcher's dramatic portrayal of Bernard Shaw creates through Shaw's own ideas and mainly through Shaw's own words, an "autobiographical" portrait of one of the greatest writers of his time. The performance glitters with wit and humor; the underlying thought is penetrating and infinitely more serious.

Indeed, Bramwell Fletcher as Bernard Shaw has captured audiences in the major cities throughout the country as Shaw, himself, captured the world. They will both be "heard" and "seen" in Andover the evening of April 14. Reservations are available at the Academy.

Pre-Schoolers Taking Trips

The children of Free Church Co-op Pre-School are traveling about this spring, taking advantage of the good weather opportunities for visits to a variety of places.

Within the past few weeks they have been to the Andover Police Station and to the Boston Science Museum, where they lunched in the Sky Tower.

Soon their teacher, Mrs. Thayer Warshaw, will shepherd the four and five-year-olds through a tour of Bon Secours Hospital and tomorrow, Friday, the youngsters will explore the "Feelies" exhibit at Addison Gallery of American Art, Phillips Academy.

This exhibit is of particular interest to these pre-schoolers because it seeks to excite the senses with a variety of commonplace things that the boys and girls have been using as art materials at school - such items as wooden buttons, shells, paper twistings, dried vegetables and the like.

The Co-op students were hosts and hostesses at Free Church last week for their annual Old Grad Day on Wednesday. Some 50 guests attended.

said they did not and 48 said they would be interested in doing such work themselves.

A total of 83 said they would welcome occasional visitors from their church and 85 said they would not. About an equal number expressed an interest or a lack of interest in visits from neighbors.

The Council learned that 81 of those surveyed believe their is a need for increased visiting nurse service, while 78 see a need for a library book loan service and 66, a need for transportation for people in their age group.

Of the total questioned, 118 said they would like the council to establish a drop-in center, 99 said they need to know more about social security, medicare and other assistance programs (95, however, said they do not need such information) and a whopping 152 reported that they believe local industry should be actively urged to hire older people.

More than half a hundred volunteered to visit shut-ins, assist the council with its work or help to staff a drop-in center if one is established.

Some of those attending the meeting brought samples of the hand work they do (i.e. paintings and hooked rugs) and these were displayed during the refreshment period.

During the discussion, Michael Morris of the State Commission on Aging spoke of the assistance available to the town from the state and federal governments for projects to benefit the over-60 population.

George Walsh, principal of Stowe School, closed the meeting with an illustrated talk on the history of Andover which he prepared in conjunction with Leslie Bartow, town recreation director. Bartow has been working with the council and assisted with plans and preparations for this first council event.

Early in the program Selectman Robert A. Watters brought the greetings of his board to the audience.

Collector Loans Glass For Exhibit

Mrs. Fay Elliott of Andover has loaned a half dozen examples from her outstanding collection of 18th and 20th century engraved and cut glass for the National Early American Glass Club Exhibition which is at Boston Public Library through April 9.

On display are more than 700 pieces of antique glassware, representative of 3000 years of glass making. One that Mrs. Elliott has loaned is a Masonic "firing" glass, so named because it gave off a sound like that of a gun being fired when lodge members rapped its sturdy base on the table after drinking.

"Facets of American Glass with Ancient and European Comparisons" is the theme of the 25-case collection, which has been termed one of the finest exhibits ever to be held in this country outside a museum.

Choice examples of early blown and pressed glass, engraved and cut glass, art glass, iridescent glass, Ancient and Continental glass, early flasks, bottles, lamps, candlesticks, paper weights, and rare Sandwich, New England Glass Co., Portland, Pittsburgh, Midwestern and English ware have been loaned by member museums and by collectors in the parent group which meets monthly in the hall of Boston's historic Park Street Church on the Freedom Trail.

The eight museums which have loaned glass and documents include Boston Museum of Fine Arts, Ford Museum, Dearborn, Mich.; Yale University Art Gallery, New Haven, Conn.; the Bennington Museum, Bennington, Vt.; Corning Glass Museum, Corning, N. Y.; Wardsworth Atheneum, Hartford, Conn.; Sandwich Historical Society, Sandwich, Mass., and Portland Historical Society, Portland, Maine.

Members of the exhibit committee are Mrs. Malcolm T. Calder of Melrose, collector of art glass; Lowell Innes of Saco, Maine, foremost authority in this country on Pittsburgh glass; Kenneth Wilson, curator of the Corning Glass Museum; and Miss Jones whose collection of ancient glass is in the exhibit.

The club, which was founded in Boston in 1933 to preserve American Glass and to promote the interest and study of all types of glass, now has 35 regional groups extending from Maine to California.

The Boston Public Library, Copley Square, is open 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays through Fridays; 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays. There is no admission charge.

Sanctuary Schedule Is Heavy

"Trees and Plants" is the subject for the children's program at Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary, Perkins Row, Topsfield, April 8 at 10 a.m. Do trees breathe? Which parts of trees and plants can be eaten? Which insects and animals live in trees? These and other questions will be answered by Miss Angela Dreher during her presentation in the Sanctuary barn and on a short field trip. Children under eight should bring a parent. Waterproof footgear is recommended.

During April and May the public is invited to Saturday morning bird walks which will be led by Daniel Keheler at the Ipswich River Sanctuary. The first walk in this Spring series will be on April 8 at 9 a.m. The recolless jet cannon net, used for banding large numbers of birds, will be demonstrated at the Ipswich River Sanctuary Sunday, April 9 at 2 p.m. This net has been used experimentally at Parker River Refuge but this is the first time it has been demonstrated for the public. Two members of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Don Blaise and James Van Weelden will discuss the distribution of waterfowl and the problems and techniques in carrying out large-scale bird-banding programs.

Cabaret Set For April 29

The West Andover Community Assn. is arranging a pot luck cabaret as a fund raising event for 8 p.m. Saturday, April 29 at the community center on North Street.

Members who want reservations should contact a member of the following committee by April 10: Mrs. Frank Orlando, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Roger LaFrenier, Mrs. Harold Cookson, Mrs. George LaFountain, Mrs. Paul Alesky, Mrs. Bruno Skieba, Mrs. Louis Dizoglio, Mrs. Frank Peterof and Mrs. Warren Kearn.

WILLIAM F. JOLLIFFE

Jolliffe Is Graduate Of Drama School

William F. Jolliffe, son of Dr. and Mrs. Leslie S. Jolliffe of 137 Lowell St., was graduated on March 30 from the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York City. Included in the graduation class of 1967, the largest senior class in the Academy's 82 year history, were 101 graduates from 23 states and 8 foreign nations. The graduation ceremonies at the Academy were highlighted by the commencement address of Richard Kiley, Broadway star of "The Man From La Mancha".

Called "the first school of professional dramatic training in the English-speaking world", the American Academy of Dramatic Arts has reached a record enrollment this year of more than 1300 students in all courses: regular, evening, teenage, and summer. Numbered among the American Academy's many celebrated students are such stars as Spencer Tracy, William Powell, Thelma Ritter, Rosalind Russell, Grace Kelly, Edward G. Robinson, Robert Cummings, Jason Robards, Lauren Bacall, Anne Bancroft and many more.

Leaders Training

Girl Scout leaders from the Merrimack River Girl Scout Council are involved with a new Design for Learning program, a plan for helping leaders to prepare themselves for GS responsibilities.

Training teams will be working with leaders for the next several weeks under the supervision of Mrs. Wilson Roads, director of the pilot program. Classes are underway as follows: at Memorial Hall Library in Andover, under the guidance of Mrs. Roads and Mrs. Thomas Varnum; at Girl Scout House, Fort Devens, with the help of Mrs. Clayton Nash and Mrs. Frank West; and at the Congregational Church in Tyngsboro under the leadership of Mrs. Arthur Jackson and Mrs. Edward J. Greenblatt.

The Design for Learning concept is the result of a three-year study authorized by Girls Scouts of the USA. The plan helps leaders take responsibility, with guidance, for their own development as leaders.

One-hundred individuals are registered for the classes. Among them are Mrs. Philip Christie, Mrs. Robin Moseley, Mrs. Gerard Green, Mrs. Richard Aunnals and Mrs. Roy Brandt of Andover.

TINKER LISTED

David Tinker, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wellington Tinker, 15 Nutmeg Ln., is on the first semester dean's list for the Rhode Island School of Design.

AVIS Showing Nature Films

To inform its members and the public, the Andover Village Improvement Society is sponsoring two programs of nature and conservation films this month and next.

Both programs are to be held in the auditorium at Central School; both will begin at 8 p.m. and run for about one hour.

On April 13, two films will be shown: "The Myths and the Parallels" and "Nature Remains". The first movie reveals in an unusual way the disastrous effects of man's abuse, waste, and misuse of his natural heritage - production soil, clean air, and pure water. Practical steps towards the solution of a vital national problem are suggested. This film says AVIS, has been widely acclaimed as one of the most dramatic and forceful conservation messages ever produced. "Nature Remains" was filmed largely in a Boston suburb and covers the activities of familiar birds and mammals through the seasons.

The second program will take place on May 10 when the films

"Gooney Bird" and "Green City" will be shown. "Gooney Bird" is an amusing film about the troubles of the Air Force when the comical gooney bird, or albatross, takes possession of the runways at Midway Island. "Green City" is a documentation of the necessity for green belts around and within our cities.

AVIS has selected the films to be shown because of their appeal to all ages and scheduled them early enough to permit family attendance, admission free.

The Village Improvement Society hopes to awaken interest in the natural world and in the need for sound conservation practices in Andover. The Society intends to make this an annual event if there is sufficient public response.

VISITS COLLEGE

Ernest D. Stansfield, 6 Standish Cir., and his daughter Jeanne, were on the Newton (Mass.) College of the Sacred Heart campus recently for the twelfth annual father-daughter weekend, which was highlighted by the dedication of Newton's new $1,500,000 library.

Students To Honor Principal

Shawsheen School pupils will pay tribute to their principal, Miss Anne Harnedy, at their annual spring concert at 8 p.m. on April 12 in the school auditorium.

An original musical, "Those Wonderful Years", will be used to trace the history of the 38 years Miss Harnedy has spent as principal at Shawsheen. She will retire in June.

Appearing in this portion of the program will be fifth and sixth grade students under the direction of Miss Mildred Moore of the music department staff. She will be assisted by Mrs. Frances St. Germain, Mrs. Rita Dubrule, Mrs. Pauline Durgin and Mrs. Margaret Fingleton.

Fourth grade flutophonists will play under the direction of Miss Florence McCarthy and the Shawsheen School Orchestra will be led by Miss Linda Wood.

Image Pitfalls

When the question of representation for Andover public school teachers was first raised after passage of state legislation legalizing collective bargaining for municipal employees, the townspeople were told they should be relieved that teachers here had chosen to affiliate with the Massachusetts Teachers Assn. in preference to joining forces with the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO.

Deal with the AEA, the leadership said, and you deal with a professional organization, one which does not condone strikes and one which cannot be called out on strike because of labor difficulties involving book publishers etc. It was a persuasive though presumably a somewhat academic argument since strikes by public employees are illegal in the Commonwealth. Such laws have been circumvented elsewhere, however, with mass resignations, work slowdowns etc. so it was not a point to be disregarded.

But now the growing strength of the Massachusetts Teachers Assn. has been focused in support of a bill which would permit teachers to strike, under certain circumstances.

It is a move that should clarify things for those reluctant to regard the teachers' movement fostered by the National Education Assn. as a full fledged labor movement, and it dramatizes the fact that no matter how much the techniques of the two may vary, both will rely on the use of power and pressure in their struggle for supremacy.

It is possible to state, without debating the relative merits of the competing organizations, that the teachers' association has weakened its claim to "professionalism" by seeking to legalize the strike for public employees. (And this would be the end result of approval of any such measure for the Legislature can scarcely condone strikes for teachers without giving fire, police, public works and clerical personnel the same privilege.)

The MTA wants to have its cake and eat it too. It wants its members treated like professionals, consulted on policy and given economic stature in the community, reserving at the same time the right for teachers to behave unprofessionally when confronted by school boards that do not "bargain in good faith."

This attitude reflects a subtle change in the thinking at the top. The National Education Assn. is currently investigating the possibility of revising its stand on teacher strikes and a high-level study committee may recommend such a move at the organization's representative assembly in June.

The NEA has already weakened its position on the strike question. In 1962 it adopted a resolution which specifically condemned the use of strikes by teachers, but just three years later the assembly re-worded the policy statement. Now the resolution merely deplores the "arbitrary exercise of unilateral authority by boards of education, administrators or teachers."

If the NEA eventually makes a full retreat from its position on strikes, it could prove to be the first move in the direction of a merger with the AFL-CIO teachers' union. At least this is the view of some experts on the subject.

Admittedly teachers in the USA are in an awkward position. Other municipal employees are bidding competitively for an ever larger share of the local tax dollar and teachers know from bitter experience that the wheel that squeaks gets the bulk of the oil.

But the NEA and the MTA should weigh most carefully potential shifts in policy that will alter the basic philosophy of their organizations. Perhaps it is unfair of the public to expect teachers to behave more responsibly than other segments of society, but the fact is that people do look to teachers for a sort of dedication to the community that sets them apart.

The leadership of the organizations that now fight for teachers' rights would do well to keep this in mind.

It may be true that teachers need a fresh image, that they should be militant enough to prove that they are not sheep to be dutifully herded. But surely what they seek is something better than a new role as sheep with union badges.

According to a forecast made by the Edison Electric Institute, by 1970, the nation's investor-owned electric utility companies expect to almost double their power-producing capabilities of 1960.

What Our Readers Say

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN
Mrs. Van Everen's outcry of pain (in the March 30th issue) over the litter in the Indian Ridge Reservation should stir the heart of everyone who wants to keep Andover clean and green.

Now, with the snow gone and the ground about to dry out, the Land Management Committee of the Andover Village Improvement Society is lining up volunteer work parties to clean up and maintain its Reservations at Indian Ridge and along the Shawshen and Merrimack Rivers. Anyone calling me will get an opportunity to donate a couple of hours to help with clearing existing trails, laying out new trails, collecting, carting away or burying litter.

The lands of the Society are open to everyone; let's keep them beautiful for everyone's enjoyment.

The front page of The Townsman for March 23 reports "MTA Head Favours Legalizing Strikes."

W. H. Hebert, Executive Secretary-Treasurer of the MTA, the school teachers union, is reported to be of the opinion that because "employees in the private sector of our economy (have) the right to strike" then public school teachers ought to have the same right.

However, it should be kept in mind that unionized employees in the private sector seldom confront management with the proposition that they must be considered professionals in the art of managing and determining business objectives and so should have authority in those areas. Moreover, in the private sector employees actions do not daily and directly serve as examples to the community's young people.

It is now clear that W. H. Hebert's teacher's union, with the approval of Andover school teacher Bruce MacDonald, wants its cake and eat it too. Teacher union members want themselves considered professionals in the management and objectives of school affairs while no more than employees when it comes to getting more by striking.

Such illogical and conflicting education would be untenable in the private sector: It is wholly out of place in the public sector where the young are constantly exposed to it as examples more effective than anything the teachers might say.

The ABC program has now been accepted by the Town of Andover and has been given full approval by the School Committee. Now, there is nothing left but hard work - to provide living facilities - to raise money - to provide home supervision and tutoring - to provide medical and dental services - to select students - in short, to make ABC a living program. On behalf of the Andover Committee for a BETTER CHANCE, I thank all our friends for the marvelous support they have given us in the first three months of effort and express my hope and confidence that this support will continue in the months and years ahead.

The attention of people who desire a place to dump refuse matter is called to the public dump on the old railroad below High Street. C. A. Booth, who now resides on Bartlett Street has purchased of James Cochran, the lot of land occupied by the old blacksmith shop on Punchard Avenue. He will have a house erected there. (Note spelling of Bartlett Street with two t's).

Walter Brackett, who has for some time been connected with the repairing department at the store of J. E. Sears, will open a room in the back of the brick store next Monday when he will be ready to do all kinds of repairing on boots, shoes and rubbers at reasonable rates.

William G. Goldsmith has sold the house occupied by M. E. Guttererson on Maple Avenue to Mrs. Walter B. Allen. Mr. Guttererson will continue to occupy it.

Eugene Pratt and Charles Livingstone of West Parish each paid $8 for fishing in Haggetts Pond last week.

Lawrence milkmen have voted to keep the price of milk at six cents a quart during the spring and summer. It was five cents last year.

One of Prof. Young's recent astronomy lectures at Abbot Academy a beautiful picture of the sun's spectra was thrown upon the canvas. A certain Phillips Academy student gazed at it thoughtfully a moment and then was heard to remark: "I be plagued if I know what that is, but I've a cheviot shirt at home of exactly the same pattern."

John L. Smith has filed a protest with the Selectmen against the payment of any money by the town for the new building at Punchard Free School, as voted at the recent Town Meeting.

Frank Boland, formerly of Punchard High School, has been elected a member of the debating team at the University of Notre Dame.

H. Krinsky has started in the junk business and is prepared to pay the highest market prices for old papers and magazines.

The flags have begun to fly in increasing numbers about the town and it is good. Let us hope that the aroused enthusiasm created by them may lead us to that genuine type of patriotism that will "do" as well as "declare."

Mr. Spellman who recently sold his small farm on Greenwood Road, has leased and moved his family to the farm on Chandler Road long known as the Albert Bailey farm but now owned by Louis A. Dane.

The following real estate transfers have been recorded: Anna F. A. Perkins to Mary F. Babbitt; H. Robert Bygrave to George F. Smith; Brooks F. Holt to Peter Peters; Mary J. MacLeod to Aldone Vasil; Samuel T. Luscomb to George E. Luscomb; George B. Frost to Dora M. Frost; John C. Angus et al to Henry E. Miller.

It is estimated that there are many thousands of acres of land in Andover adapted to garden uses now lying almost entirely idle. It would be possible to make this land produce, and it would also be possible to get the men interested to do the work in that production if it were definitely known that the owners would donate the use for a year's trial. How much land have you got that you would like to have tilled this year in the effort to reduce the high cost of living for Andover citizens?

The Harding family lived ... in a large white house which, I think, is still standing. 'Uncle' John was, at one time, owner of the store in the Baptist Church basement."

"Also, Lupine Road because of the profusion of blue lupines that garnished the fields and roadsides many years ago in that vicinity ... Hidden Road and Hidden Field because of the Hidden family who lived in the spacious white house now occupied by Mrs. Kellogg Boynton ... David Isaac Chandler Hidden and his sister, Miss Mary Hidden, were the last of the family."

Edward Thomson of Oak Street, gunner's mate second class in the U. S. Navy, was one of the survivors of the sinking of the Navy supply ship Pollux in which 92 officers and men perished on Feb. 18.

We have not yet settled the controversy over Bartlett Street - Bartlett Street which raised quite a storm a year back, but trust that the new sign does.

Sixty books were selected this year as the NOTABLES OF 1966. These are adult books, fiction and informational, which were chosen for their contribution to literature and general knowledge through excellence, perception, and sincerity.

In announcing this year's selection, Mrs. Muriel Javelin, formerly of the Boston Public Library staff, now president of the American Library Assn.'s adult services division said "Each of these titles has made a real contribution. The American public deserves good books, whether they are best-sellers or lesser-known books."

Memorial Hall Library has bought all sixty titles which will be on display during National Library Week, April 17-22. As with all books to be displayed that week, they will be available for home reading and may be charged out for a one-week period. If the titles you want are not available when you call at the library, feel free to place reserves at the circulation desk in the main reading room.

Andover Tops

'67 Seal Goal

Andover is among the first Massachusetts communities to top the local goal in the 1967 Easter Seal appeal for crippled children and adults. Chester T. Jenkins, assistant treasurer of the Andover Savings Bank in Andover, and area treasurer, said residents have contributed $1,473 and gone over the $1,450 goal.

"This is encouraging to those of us concerned with the many needs of our physically disabled," he said. "I hope, however, that anyone who has not contributed will do so soon to help ensure the success of the statewide drive and the maintenance of the Easter Seal Society's multiple rehabilitation services. Gifts may be sent to us in care of the bank."

Philosophy may teach us to bear with equanimity the misfortunes of our neighbors.

Trouble-free with a capital "T"!

STANDARD CLIPPINGS BAG. TORO pioneered grass and leaf bagging attachments for rotary mowers in the first place, and this year they're even better. This standard equipment bag clamps on with one hand, and it has a heavy-duty bottom. No zippers to clog, either.

SAFETY SPIN START. You wind up the "impulse" starter, step behind the mower handle, for safety, and push the lever to "start" position. Chokes automatically.

THREE OR 3½ HP. FOUR-CYCLE ENGINE. Starts easily, runs smoother than cheap 2-cycle engines. No mixing of gas and oil.

MAGNESIUM HOUSING. The lighter-than-aluminum stuff they use in airplanes.

AUTO-OILER. A visual oil filler. Push the button and you're sure the crankcase is full. No plug, no funnels, no oily fingers.

CLEAN-OUT PORT. When you're through mowing, let the engine idle and run a little water into the clean-out port. The blade splashes it all around under the housing and washes it out like new.

TRIMIT. You know that grass along the sidewalk that won't stand up? This little device props it up so the blade can clip it off crisply.

WIND-TUNNEL HOUSING. TORO's "S" shaped cutting blade actually creates a powerful suction under the housing. It pulls grass up for a more even cut, "vacuums" leaves, too.

Chiroprapist

When we think of a chiroprapist today, we visualize a practitioner who specializes in treating such conditions as corns, bunions, and other ailments of the feet. Actually, the term is a hybrid of 2 Greek words — cheir meaning "hand" and poda meaning "foot." The suffix "ist" means "one who practices."

It is not definitely established whether the term originally referred to a person who treated diseases of both the hands as well as the feet—or whether it meant one who used his hands to treat diseases of the feet.

In A Word...

Chiroprapist

When we think of a chiroprapist today, we visualize a practitioner who specializes in treating such conditions as corns, bunions, and other ailments of the feet. Actually, the term is a hybrid of 2 Greek words — cheir meaning "hand" and poda meaning "foot." The suffix "ist" means "one who practices."

It is not definitely established whether the term originally referred to a person who treated diseases of both the hands as well as the feet—or whether it meant one who used his hands to treat diseases of the feet.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Collins, 1 Greeney Ct., and the bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Twomey, 151 Hidden Rd.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an Empire gown of mauve de sole with an Alencon lace bodice and elbow length sleeves, matching pillbox held her veil in illusion and she carried a bouquet of white stephanotis.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Andre Richard of Peabody, and the bridesmaid, Mrs. Russell Hiller of Marion, both sisters of the bride, were dressed individually in Empire gowns of pink and turquoise mauve de sole with matching flower crowns. Their bouquets were of pink and turquoise gardenias.

Neil Twomey DD served as best man for his brother. The ushers were George Corkery of Lawrence, cousin of the groom and Thomas Collins of Andover, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Collins chose a pale blue brocade jacket dress with matching accessories. Her pink and blue flowered hat complemented the outfit.

Mrs. Twomey wore a cranberry worsted ensemble with mink trim at the cuffs. Her hat and accessories were in a matching color.

A reception was held at Andover Inn.

The bride, a graduate of St. Mary's High School, Lawrence and Grace Downs Airline School, is a former TWA hostess.

Mr. Twomey is an alumnus of Central Catholic High School, Lawrence, Lawrence Academy of Groton and the University of New Hampshire. He has served with the Army in Vietnam and is currently with Air General Helicopter Corp., Boston.

OPEN FOR INSPECTION this Sunday, the Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational-Technical High School. The school is located on River Road, Andover.

V-Tech Holding Open House

The public will have an opportunity to visit the Greater Lawrence Regional Technical-Vocational High School this weekend, to examine exhibits in the various shops and to ask questions about the program of the relatively new school.

An Open House will be held for the public between the hours of 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. Sunday for the purpose of acquainting people in the area with the facilities and program offered at the school. It will be the first step taken by the school's administrators to build public support for an expansion program which was announced earlier this year but openly opposed as an immediate project by some communities and groups cooperating in the region. Students from Andover, North Andover, Lawrence and Methuen attend classes at the Vo-Tech School which is located at 57 River Road in Andover.

A feature of the Open House will be a forum entitled "Your School" which is to be conducted at 1:30 p.m. by James A. Booth, superintendent - director of the 600 - student facility, and members of the district school committee including Chairman Fred Tarbox of Andover. Questions about the objectives and future growth of the school will be answered.

Students will act as guides for tours throughout the school and each shop will have on display projects representing the work of that class group. Included will be electronics, data processing, automotive and carpentry exhibits.

Invitations have been sent to leading educators, industrialists and municipal officials as well as parents of enrolled students. But the general public is cordially welcome, also.

Retelle Heads Bird Club

Albert R. Retelle of Andover is the newly elected president of the Merrimack Valley Bird Club.

The annual meeting last week also elected Mrs. Waters Kellogg of Andover secretary-treasurer and Oscar M. Root of North Andover, recorder. Mr. Root, who founded the club in 1948, is retiring after serving 20 years as president.

The club voted to bind the club's records of the past 20 years and deposit them in Memorial Hall Library, Andover. Gifts to Memorial Hall and to the Massachusetts Audubon Society were approved.

President Retelle was appointed to represent the club at the public hearing on classification of the Merrimack River at Lowell on April 4 and the club voted unanimously to urge at least a "B" classification for the river.

A program of five early morning spring walks for 1967 was adopted.

Mrs. Kellogg gave an illustrated talk on "Birding in the British Isles", describing her experiences of last summer when she attended the XIV International Ornithological Congress in Oxford.
